

It's amazing what you can find on Twitter, how's this for a bit of defamation? And so sorry, Steve, no shame here, that is TMBC's job. And whilst the external solicitor did suggest bullying, that allegation was swiftly discredited.

Steve is being modest - TMBC have spent many tens of thousands persecuting me, waste of public money when a simple apology would have sufficed, and Steve voted in favour!

Thanks Jo, its support like that that helps me put up with the cp from people like Steve.

Steve continues with a similarly deluded tweet, below. Don't mind him claiming to belong to J5, and he did set up its website, but he wasn't even living in Borough Green when East Facing Slips were first mentioned.

I wonder if it has yet dawned on Tom Tugendhat how dangerous association with Mr P could be for his re-election chances. He clearly sees Mr P as his door-opener to local people (tee - hee)

Still, Tom wasn't to know, we shouldn't hold it against him.
